This is a black and white aerial photograph of a large exhibition ground in Paris, likely during the 1930s. The foreground and middle ground are filled with modernist-style buildings, some with flat roofs and others with tiered, stepped designs. There are wide, open spaces with many small figures of people walking around. In the background, a large, prominent dome, possibly the Grand Palais, is visible against a hazy sky. The overall scene depicts a major urban event or fair.
